Comunidad, inmunidad y biopolítica (Pensamiento Herder) (Spanish Edition) Roberto Esposito

Comunidad, inmunidad y biopolítica son los términos que indican la clausura del léxico político moderno en una época que se desplaza mucho más allá de sus límites. También son palabras que inauguran un nuevo modo de pensar la política en el momento que más interpela a la vida, entendida en su dimensión biológica. Se trata, en suma, de las categorías fundamentales mediante las cuales Roberto Esposito elabora un pensamiento que se encuentra entre los más reconocidos y originales de la filosofía continental contemporánea.

"¿Qué es, qué puede ser, una política que ya no piense la vida como objeto sino como sujeto de política? Una política, así, ya no sobre la vida sino de la vida. Son preguntas que, evidentemente, no pueden responderse en una investigación individual, sino que reclaman un esfuerzo colectivo al que estamos todos convocados."
